

“DEFENDING THE GATEWAY TO CHARLESTON: THE REVOLUTIONARY WAR ON THE CAINHOY PENINSULA”

TUESDAY, MAY 19, 7 TO 8:30 PM
CHURCH OF THE HOLY SPIRIT
299 SEVEN FARMS DRIVE, DANIEL ISLAND

Berkeley County's Revolutionary War history is rich and storied, with more than 30 documented sites of significance here. Of particular importance was the village of Cainhoj, where the Patriots fortified a post in May of 1780 and also maintained a field hospital.

What role did Daniel Island and the greater Cainhoj Peninsula play in the war?

What battles and skirmishes took place here and who were the major players in military actions?

How did these events fit into the larger South Carolina Revolutionary War story?

Join us for a panel discussion with John Brian Eleazer, author of the book The South Carolina Militia in the Revolutionary War; Katherine Pemberton, Chief of Education and Outreach, SC American Revolution - Sestercentennial Commission (SC250); Torrence Sullivan, a member of the Daniel Island Historical Society Board of Directors and the Berkeley County Greenbelt Commission; and Dr. Phillip Davis, author of the new book, Revolutinary Lowcountry: The Almost Forgotten.

THIS PROGRAM IS A JOINT PRESENTATION OF THE DANIEL ISLAND HISTORICAL SOCIETY AND THE BERKELEY 250 FRANCIS MARION COMMISSION.
